'SOCIETY BURGLAR' FOUND WEALTHY WOMEN VICTIMS AT AFTERNOON TANGO TEAS

Eaton Admits He Stole $15,000 Worth of Jewels From Visitor From Paris.

FOUND IN HIS HOME.

Obscure Clerk to His Friends
Was Really a Master Criminal.

Herbert J. Eaton, an obscure clerk so far as his friends knew him, dying in the Knickerbocker Hospital from a policeman's bullet, was revealed today as a "gentleman adventurer" of the type that makes women its prey. Mrs. Gertrude Pike, wife of Arthur E. Pike, a cotton merchant of No. 510 Riverside Drive, whom Eaton had confessed robbing of $15,000 of jewels, was not his first victim. He admitted to-day that it was he who robbed Miss Marie H. Kohn, a young Parisian here on a visit, of $15,000 worth of jewels, furs and fine clothing in August of last year and provided a mystery the police could not solve.

Eaton apparently worked as little as possible, but posed as a well-to-do tiler in fashionable hotels and in tango tea rooms. It was thus he met Mrs. Pike, and so, too, that he met Miss Kohn. The police believe many other names might be added to the list could Eaton be got in condition to talk.

Now they wonder what other secrets are locked in Eaton's mind. He is unconscious and doctors say he can scarcely live out the day. Eaton met Miss Kohn at the Hotel Manhattan just as Mrs. Pike says he met her at the Hotel Astor. The young Parisian told the police a mutual friend introduced Mr. J. L. McDonald, a pleasant spoken Englishman, who soon confided that he was a remittance man and made himself so agreeable that Miss Kohn accepted his invitation to escort her in a taxi to her home at No. 592 Madison Avenue.

McDonald must first, however, visit his rooms in the Grand Union. He said, and Miss Kohn consented to await him in the parlor. It was an hour later before she became uneasy and then she learned from the taxi-driver that her escort had left the hotel. Miss Kohn hurried home. There she discovered her keys were missing, but got the superintendent of the building to open her apartment. She was amazed to find it ransacked. A big wardrobe trunk had been taken and with it went fur coats, opera cloaks, street and evening gowns and jewels of great value.

UPHOLD CONVICTION OF "BOSS" CASSIDY; CRITICISE CROPSEY

Appellate Division Rules That William Willett and Louis T. Walter Must Serve Terms.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, sitting in Brooklyn, sustained to-day the convictions, obtained last winter, of Joseph Cassidy, former Democratic boss of Queens; ex-Congressman William Willett of Rockaway and Louis T. Walter, for trafficking in a nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court. The three defendants, who have been at liberty on bail, were notified to appear in court for arraignment this afternoon. They did not show up, and warrants for their arrest were issued.

Robert Elder, counsel for the trio, announced that he would carry an appeal to the Court of Appeals. This will have the effect of postponing final decision for months. Lawyers say that, in view of the fact that the court was unanimous in sustaining the convictions of Cassidy and Willett and stood three to two against Walter, Mr. Elder may change his programme.

Cassidy and Willett were sentenced by the trial court to serve not less than one year nor more than eighteen months in prison and to pay fines of $1,000 each. Walter was sentenced to a term of three months in the penitentiary and fined $1,000. The evidence showed that Willett, on the day of the judicial convention in October, 1911, drew $10,000 from banks in Jamaica and paid it over to Cassidy through Walter. Up to the time Willett drew the money it was considered certain that Cassidy, who as boss of Queens had the naming of one of three candidates for the Supreme Court nomination, would select Surrogate Noble of Queens.

In their opinion upholding the conviction of Cassidy, Willett and Walter, the Justices take a rap at District Attorney Cropsey for the tone of the brief he submitted for the prosecution. The brief was stricken from the records and returned to Mr. Cropsey for reasons set forth in the following language of Justice Burr, who wrote the prevailing opinion:

"It is with sincere regret that we observe the learned District Attorney in the brief submitted by him, has employed language relative to the Justices of this court, who granted to the defendants a certificate of reasonable doubt, which was unworthy of a gentleman, a member of a learned profession and the incumbent of an important constitutional office."
